Indigenous Role Models

Our EFP 10 class had the privilege of welcoming Erica Davies, an Indigenous role model, teacher, and artist, into our classroom this week. Erica generously shared her personal journey, her artistic practice, and the cultural teachings connected to the creation of medicine bags.

Alongside Stephanie Louie, Erica guided students through the process of making their own medicine bags as a pre-reading experience for The Marrow Thieves.

This hands-on learning helped students build meaningful connections to themes in the novel—identity, resilience, community, and the importance of cultural knowledge.

We are deeply grateful for Erica's visit and the opportunity for students to learn directly from local Indigenous educators and artists.
